To whom it may concern

This is to certify that Prof. Thomas T. George, Global Aquaculture Consultants, Toronto, Canada, had been recruited during the period 2003-2006 by Al Neelain University as the first Director of the School of Fisheries Sciences within the Faculty of Agricultural Technology.

Prof. George had been extremely dynamic in establishing the School of Fisheries Sciences and its aquaculture farm on the White Nile. Beside his aquaculture lectures to the first batch of students, he had significantly provided them with hands-on practical experience through a bilateral cooperation agreement between Al Neelain University and a private commercial fish farm. Also, he had supervised two of his students for submitting their graduation projects and jointly published with them the results in the 2006 Bulletin of the Aquaculture Association of Canada: "Egg enumeration, incubation, hatching and development of the "Miracle Fish", Oreochromis niloticus, in the Sudan."

I strongly recommend him for similar assignments and wish him all the best.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Awad Hag Ali Ahmed
Vice-Chancellor
