TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I have great pleasure in testifying to the merits and abilities of Prof. Thomas Tewfik George in promoting fisheries research and development in Sudan. Prof. George, as Director of the Fisheries Research Centre, worked very hard in building up the research centre and contributed significantly in preparing for its highly qualified Sudanese cadre in the different disciplines of fisheries. In spite of his administrative responsibilities and limited funds, Prof. George is a devoted research worker and succeeded in implementing field and laboratory experiments on various aspects of fisheries, particularly aquaculture which enabled him to acquire considerable expertise on this subject. He had worked as a Consultant for FAO, WHO and Arab Organization for Agricultural Development on several occasions.

To the best of my knowledge, Prof. George had also attended several FAO Fisheries training courses and obtained certificates. Also he had attended several FAO conferences, workshops, CIFA and ADCOM meetings and received letters of acknowledgement and recognition for his professional participation in the discussions. His personal contribution to the World Food Day in Sudan was highly appreciated.

My personal impression is that Prof. George is frank and firm in his technical opinions and that is why he is a success in his career. As a character, I found him a lovable personality, sincere and considerate.
